Modern Dahlias

AMUN RA (Dec.). Immense decorative, resembling a glorious setting sun, unlike any color combination heretofore known to dahlias. The outer petals are a gorgeous shade of copper and orange, shading to gold and amber, merging at the center into a rich reddish bronze; one of the greatest dahlias of the day.

Price $5.00

AUGUST SHUMAN (Dec.). A very large full petaled decorative, often 9 to 10 inches in diameter. Light rose pink overcaster with yellow, and golden bronze.

Price $3.00

EARLE WILLIAMS (Dec.). Exceedingly large brilliant crimson, with white distributed through each petal. The flowers stand erect on long stiff stems. I consider this one of the most attractive of modern dahlias.

Price $3.00

J. W. DAVIES (Dec.). Deep shade of cerise at center gradually shading to a lighter tint; a very large flower, holding size throughout season.

Price $4.00

JUNIOR (Dec.). This is one of if not the largest dahlia grown. The color is a pure lavender pink. The flowers when fully out look like a large water lily. Its keeping quality is wonderful.

Price $5.00

LA PALOMA (Dec.). A grand flower of great depth and size. The color is a deep golden buff, shaded bronze, petals tipped white. Strong robust plant, flowering on good long stems.

Price $3.00

LILLIAN GRINNELL (Dec.). This new white dahlia no doubt, is as good or better than ever produced. Plants are dwarf and bloom profusely with flowers 8 to 10 inches in size (see Half Tone on front cover).

Price $5.00

MEHISTOPELES (Dec.). A grand large vivid scarlet flower, each petal slightly tinged maroon.

Price $5.00

MRS. I. DE VER WARNER (Dec.). Extra large deep mauve pink; a profuse bloomer, each flower on long stiff stem.

Price $4.00

ROOKWOOD (Dec.). Pure bright cerise-rose; beautiful under artificial light. The blossoms are large and held high, on stiff stems, above the plants.

Price $4.00

The above set of 10 Dahlias for $35.00
GREETING

It is with justifiable pride that I present to my friends and customers my twentieth annual catalog. It contains the most complete list of up-to-date Dahlias that I have ever sent out.

Many varieties, listed previously, do not appear, having been replaced by better Dahlias, of recent creation and introduction. Dahlia lovers know that "not how many but how good" is the important consideration, whether varieties are grown for cut flowers, or for exhibition.

I desire to call particular attention to the Dahlias listed under heading, "Leading Novelty Dahlias" Page 2. These have proven, both in the amateur garden and with the professional grower, to be satisfactory in every respect. I do not make flower exhibits at the Fall Dahlia Exhibitions or force my plants to get flowers that are far above the average size that we see at such exhibitions. My plants are grown as nature grows them. Bulbs selected from such stock should give far better results.

I guarantee all tubers to be true to name and to arrive in perfect condition. But to guarantee the life of a plant, while under cultivation, in the hands of another person is to make a dealer responsible for the errors and inexperience of others, not to mention freaks of weather, and unfavorable seasons, cut worms, improper planting, unfavorable locations and many others, which the dealer has no control over. It is therefore unreasonable to ask dealers to be responsible for the life of the plant throughout the season.

I am exercising the utmost care in handling my stock, yet errors may occur. In such a case I shall allow the value in tubers the following year. My prices are for healthy tubers from field grown stock. Remittances must accompany all orders, Post office money orders preferred. Orders are shipped during the month of May unless otherwise requested at time of ordering.

Read Dahlia Culture before planting
Dahlia Culture

Dahlias do best in a light, porous soil, with good drainage. Wet feet are as fatal to them as to roses. While they will do fairly well in 25 per cent shade, an open location, in full sunshine, is much to be preferred. Do not have the soil too rich, for too much fertilizer, too much water, or too much shade, will cause the plants to grow tall and rank, but almost barren of blooms. Heavy clay soils should be made light and friable by adding ashes or sand, 40 per cent being none too much. Cultivation is everything with dahlias. Never allow the top of the ground to become hard and baked. Keep it finely pulverized with hoe or rake, particularly so during dry weather. If your dahlias do not do well any year the weather may be to blame. Do not blame the grower from whom you bought your tubers. Your soil, your failure to cultivate often enough, plus your weather, may account for ill success. Do not plant too early, the tubers may rot during a cold wet spell. Plant six to seven inches deep, laying tuber flat, sprout side uppermost; cover two inches, and fill in the rest of the soil as the plant grows. This may keep tuber from rotting. Do not plant when the soil is sticky-wet after rains. Do not let fresh fertilizer touch the tuber. Use a cupful of bone meal to a plant, and if you add any barnyard manure to very infertile soil, be sure the manure is old, well-rotted, and mixed thoroughly in the soil. A small tuber is as good, often better, than a big one. Dahlias may be planted from the first of May to the first of July. June first is about right. The dahlia is an autumn flower and blooms best when the heat of August has passed away. Follow my suggestions, and write me of your success in the fall. I have far better success from plowing manure into the ground in the fall where it can decay all winter, and at planting time using only bone meal. In a very sterile soil, besides

Remember, my aim is to please this a handful of commercial potato fertilizer could be added at planting time. Wood ashes scratched into the top soil (not over two inches, lest the roots be injured) when the flower buds show, will increase brilliancy of color of blooms and improve the tubers, for all root crops require potash. Flower buds usually appear in threes; pinch off two, leaving the largest one, and obtain much finer blooms. Scrape away enough earth to make a basin-shaped hollow two feet in diameter about each plant, sprinkle a generous handful of sheep or poultry manure; slowly pour in three buckets of water; fill the hollow with earth after the water disappears. Repeat this every ten days and your blooms will be large and fine. After frost kills the plants dig carefully lest the necks of the tubers be broken; dry half a day in the sun and air, and pack closely, stems downward, in paper lined barrels and boxes, covering top carefully with paper, and then with old rugs, or bags. The clumps of tubers must not dry out during the winter, or the buds will be injured, very probably killed. Look them over now and then, covering more carefully if need be, and scraping off all mold or rot that may develop. When you receive my tubers, unpack immediately, check up to verify order, and keep them in moist but not wet earth or sand till planted.

If there is further information required on growing dahlias I shall be glad to answer any inquiries sent me, or help my customers in the selection of varieties, and choice of colors.
